Rotary Club Holds Annual Banquet Here

Sam Livingston, Sports Writer of Paducah, Spoke To Fulton High Football Group Tuesday Night

Fulton Rotary Club sponsored its annual Football Banquet for members of the Fulton high school football team at the school cafeteria Tuesday night, with Rube McKnight, president of the club, presiding. Sam Livingston, sports writer of the Paducah paper, with 43 months service in the U. S. Navy, was the speaker of the evening. His remarks upon football as a training ground for future problems in life, and his recollections on sports incidents of the past were both interesting and entertaining.

The splendid dinner was served by the home economics girls of Miss Ovaline Coffman's class. The table was beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion. J. O. Lewis was in charge of the program.

Brief talks were made by J. B. Goranflo, coach; C. L. Maddox, president of the West Kentucky officials; W. L. Holland, principal; John Joe Campbell, captain of the 1945 Bulldogs.

AAA Committee Elections To Be Held In Fulton Co.

Fulton county farmers will take time out from their work in the next two weeks to nominate and elect AAA community and county committeemen for the ensuing year.

In each of the county's five farming communities nominating meetings will be held next week to nominate community committeemen. Farmers will be nominated from whom will be elected later, three community committeemen and two alternates. At the same time delegates to the county convention will be nominated. These delegates, when elected, will elect the three-man county committee which will administer the AAA program in Fulton county.

Chairman H. M. Hewitt of the County AAA committee said this week that the dates, hours and places for holding the community meetings will be announced in letters to Fulton county farmers.

In Fulton county, Mr. Hewitt said, approximately 850 farmers are eligible to vote on committeemen this year. "Eligible farmers are those who participate in the 1945 Agricultural Conservation or crop insurance program."

In announcing the nominating meetings, the county AAA chairman appealed for a full attendance. "Solution of the postwar problems ahead," he said, "is the vital concern of every farmer. Consequently, it is to his own best interest to make sure that the men administering AAA programs in the county are the ones he wants to represent him."

The following nominating meetings will be held at these places: Community No. 1, City Hall, Fulton, Saturday, Dec. 1 at 10:30 a. m. Community No. 2, City Hall, Fulton, Saturday, Dec. 1 at 2 p. m. Community No. 3, the Cayce High School, Saturday, Dec. 1, at 10:30 a. m. Community No. 4, AAA Office, Dec. 1, at 2 p. m. Community No. 5, AAA Office, Saturday, Dec. 1 at 10:30 a. m.

Kitty League Must Be Closer Knitted To Be Successful

Efforts Being Made To Form Another League This Side of the Tennessee River.

Preliminary work was done here last Sunday, when baseball enthusiasts of Fulton, Union City, Jackson and Martin met at the Elks club rooms to discuss plans for the formation of a league composed of clubs from towns this side of the Tennessee river. Ben Howard, of Union City, was named as president pro tem, and a meeting was set for Martin this Friday night to proceed further with plans.

Representatives of the baseball clubs of Fulton and Union City attended the recent Kitty League meeting at Mayfield with the idea in mind that two groups to be known as the East and West Kitty loop, of either six or eight clubs could be formed, with a playoff at the end of the season between the two. But when the meeting was called the die was already cast, with only eleven cities seeking entry in the league. From this number Hopkinsville, Owensboro, Madisonville, Bowling Green, Mayfield, Fulton, Clarksville and Union City were chosen to compose an eight club league. Paducah, Cairo and Vincennes, Ind. were not accepted.

With these widely scattered towns composing the league, the traveling distance is too great to complete a successful season, it is felt by Union City, Fulton and Mayfield, who will be unlikely to post forfeit money to guarantee their participation. It is the intention of the present movement to organize at least a six-team league west of the Tennessee river, with such cities as Cairo, Paducah, Mayfield, Fulton, Union City, Martin, Jackson and Corinth showing interest. Then an eastern group of towns composed of Owensboro, Bowling Green, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Clarksville, with another town, could composed the East Kitty league, or the two could operate as separate league. K. P. Dalton, president of the Fulton Baseball Association stated here today.

Dedication Services Conducted For Memorial Board Sunday Afternoon

Appropriate Address Delivered By W. E. Hudgens, Prominent Attorney Of Union City

Appropriate services were held here Sunday afternoon marking the dedication of the memorial board recently erected on Lake-st in honor and memory of those from this community who fell in service of their country during World War II.

A well planned program was conducted under the auspices of the Young Men's Business Club, with the assistance of the American Legion, the high school bands of Fulton and South Fulton, Rev. W. E. Mischke, and other local citizens. J. R. Hogan, president of the YMBC, acted as master of ceremonies.

Both bands opened the program as they marched down Lake-st from opposite directions to meet at the memorial board, where appropriate music was played. The color guard of the American Legion participated in the program to add a fitting touch to the occasion. Rev. W. E. Mischke, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the prayer of dedication. The speaker of the day, Mr. Hudgens, was then introduced by Mr. Hogan, and delivered a splendid message of dedication. His talk follows:

We have assembled here today to dedicate this beautiful memorial board to the memory of those of Fulton County who have paid the last full measure of devotion in service of their country. What we say here today can add but little to the luster and glory of their achievement. We must be very mindful of the sacrifice they made of themselves of their very lives of homes, of loved ones, of all that was near and dear to them, and the erection and dedication of this beautiful memorial should indicate in the hearts of all a determination that we will not forget the price they have paid for a continuation of the freedom which we enjoy in these United States of America.

Not only did their sacrificial death vouchsafe our own freedom but it affords to the entire world a gleam of hope that men everywhere, of every land, of every faith, of every color shall have the freedom which we enjoy.

We owe to those boys whom we honor here today an everlasting gratitude for the preservation of our country with its freedoms which we so highly prize, and as we dedicate this memorial to their honor, we can best reveal our gratitude to them by dedicating ourselves, our all and our influence to the preservation of these freedoms in our own land, and the extension of such freedoms to men everywhere. The world looks to America as their hope for freedom.

All must admit that the rule of the dictator across the sea brought utter destruction and ruin to their subjects and we must realize that the rule of a dictator in America would bring forth the same ruin and destruction to us. We who remain on the scene of action here in the United States of America should rededicate our lives, and our all to a renewed determination that our freedom shall ever remain. They cannot long remain in America unless freedom rules throughout the world. This world cannot long remain half slave and half free.

The might and power and destructiveness of the atomic bomb should convince all that we are vitally concerned with the condition and fate of all nations. Whether we want to or not, what happens to India, China, to Russia and to the islands of the sea vitally concerns us. While America stands at the forefront in scientific development we must realize that the intelligent in scientific development is not all confined to America. Among the great scientists of the world are representatives of all civilized nations. Freedom and peace to be lasting cannot be confined to our own country, or even to our allies, but must be common to all nations.

The building of a mighty wall about our country, raising its dizzy heights to the clouds all around us, (Continued on Back Page)

TERRACES CAN BE BUILT WITH TRACTOR AND PLOW

Farmers Can Do The Job With Regular Equipment in Little Time

Construction and maintenance of terraces has been reduced to a fairly simple job, which farmers can do for themselves as time and weather permit, says M. A. Sharp, agricultural engineer with the U-T College of Agriculture. The job, Sharp says, can be done with a tractor and plow, eliminating use of special, expensive equipment. And the cost is about one cent per lineal foot of terrace.

A demonstration of the simplified terrace building method was held on the U-T farm, to which farmers, Extension workers, etc., were invited. Similar demonstrations have been given throughout the State, sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service, the Agricultural Extension Service, and farm companies.

All that is needed for a good "home made" terrace job is a tractor and plow, either disc or moldboard, which the farmer uses in every day farming operations. No special equipment is needed, nor hired help. And the time element is negligible because the job can be done during the off season.

First, the terrace line is staked off. After the first round with the tractor and plow, the stakes are disregarded. Successive rounds plow up the dirt, and move it into shaps. From 24 to 30 rounds are needed, depending somewhat upon the condition and lie of the land. The terrace may be finished and "dressed up" with a disc harrow.

Terraces built by the new method have an overall width of 24 to 28 feet, where as former methods required 15 to 18 feet. But it is pointed out by demonstrating agencies that the new style of construction makes for better and easier cultivation over the terrace. Maintenance is easier because of the wider base. But the chief benefit is that any farmer who uses a tractor and plow can build and maintain his terraces at low cost and in little time.

SELF-REGULATION

Proved in action..

Experience, according to the old saying, is the best teacher. It obviates trial-and-error methods and points out the most practical means of successful accomplishment.

The Self-Regulation program, sponsored by Kentucky brewers, has proved increasingly successful throughout its experience of over five years. Its favorable influence is felt by licensed retailers of beer in every community in the State. Its purpose is—and always has been—to see that all dispensers of malt beverages recognize their social responsibilities and abide strictly by the letter of the law. It has raised the standards of beer retailing in Kentucky to an all-time high. It's a program that works.

Early lambs help prevent fleecing the owners.

If farm machinery is left out, it will soon be "out" permanently. Inflated land values, like over-inflated tires, cause an artificial boom.

Broken eggs scramble profits. Be sure to handle and package them carefully.

Before you provide room and board for hens, determine by records which are purely boarders.

If you would "get the jump" on your neighbor in garden production better jump on the garden now.

Good soil will result from good planning. Rotate crops, give "cover" for the winter, and observe good land management practices.

If you are making money on a poultry flock you want to know it. If you are losing money, the sooner you discover it, the better. Keep a record—make your hens punch the clock.

Woodman, fear that tree. Some of the most serious farm accidents result from carelessness in felling trees.

THE SECRET WEAPON

Hitler once told the truth. He said he had a secret weapon. He had, and once he tried it out on France—long before a Nazi boot or gun touched French soil.

That weapon was words—lying words, rumors, slanders, prejudices, Hitler called it "softening them up." France fell for it,—and on account of it.

The victory of the allied powers in the war has made it impossible for the Nazis any longer to spread their divisive ideas and lying words from their erstwhile propaganda centers in Germany. But that doesn't prevent the ideas already sown by the Nazis from bearing fruit—poisonous deadly fruit.

For the whispers and backbiters—the sowers of hate and division among our people are yet with us. They too have a secret weapon. It is just like Hitler's. It is Hitler's. It is words, lying words and rumors, slanders, and prejudices—directed against Catholics sometimes, against Protestants sometimes, against Jews sometimes—always against Christianity which does not deal in hate—always against true Americanism which cannot live if our people are divided by lies.

Are we Americans going to fall for this line of stuff? Are you American citizens, going to fall for the divisive hate propaganda of the the whisper mongers?

When you hear a man denounced on account of the Church to which he belongs, on account of his race or color, recognize that for what it is—Hitler's propaganda repeated even after Hitler is gone.

Fewer what your country is—a free fellowship of Protestants, Catholics, and Jews—a country for men—all kinds of them of every race and many religions. That is why it is a great country, and we want to keep it that way.

Common sense is the best defense against the secret weapon of the disciple of Hitler. Come right back at anyone who spreads rumors and prejudice against the people of any race or religion in America and ask, "Who said that first . . . Hitler or Gogbbs?"

"FROZEN" ASSETS

"Frozen" assets used to mean property that couldn't be converted into cash. Sometimes it was a polite excuse for not paying bills.

But times have changed. The remarkable advance of the last few years in developing new pulpwood products is giving a brand new meaning to the term. Frozen assets may everywhere soon be expected to mean the meats, vegetables, fruits and dairy products that the American public will be storing up in their own homes against a rainy day.

It has long been known that deep frozen food could be preserved against quick decay. Yet it took wartime research to find a form of packaging that could preserve these foods against each other and against deterioration.

Pulp and paper chemists did it, developing a special type of paper that is waterproof, mouldproof, taintproof and impervious to changes in temperature. By first packing foods in this paper, deep freezing became a practical method for keeping them indefinitely, without losing any of their original taste or goodness.

Experts today are predicting that the time is near when deep freezing units will be as much a part of the average home as an ordinary cooking stove.

Deep freezing is just one of the many miracles resulting from expanded wartime uses of pulpwood. It is one of the many hundreds of reasons why the pulpwood industry is annually becoming a more important asset to this community.

Already we are beginning to feel the effects of the stepped-up post-war demand for pulpwood products in the intensive recruitment campaign for woods and mill workers now being conducted by the pulp and paper industry and the U. S. Employment Service. And no matter how it's looked at, the top quality pulpwood you cut today becomes "unfrozen" assets in your pocket or bank account tomorrow.

TIDBITS

TOLERANCE AT FIDELITY

The longer live, the more I appreciate the fact that Fidelity, little and remote as it was, knew the meaning of tolerance. Some of the commonest happenings in the big world that I entered when I left Fidelity just did not take place there. We were far from being perfect, there was almost always a small criminal element that made us ashamed of it, and rarely some major crime appeared in or near our little village. But through it all we remained tolerant and kind-hearted.

To begin with, nearly everybody was a Democrat. Theoretically, at least, there were no virtues in Republicans. Usually we said, when nobody of that party was around, "Black Republicans." Some of the older hit-heads had taught us that. To hear the ex-Confederates talking at our loafers' joint, you would imagine that they would have let any Republican starve gladly and count it an honor to do so. Actually, however, the few Republicans we had could not have been told by an outsider from the rest of us, either by their color or by the way they were actually treated.

Sulphur Springs Church was on a Methodist circuit, Mount Carmel was a Baptist church, and the Church of Christ held its services in the Union Church at Fidelity. When protracted meetings were in progress it sometimes seemed that there could be no fellowship among such discordant theories and customs. But after the zeal had some, what cooled down we went on our way in Christian fellowship, for getting that we were supposed to be enemies or rivals. Even Father, a staunch Presbyterian, was never molested in his faith, though protracted meetings sometimes got pretty hot after people of a different church. And the Coopers, who were Mormons, suffered no neighborhood restrictions, and ultimately their children married into the Baptist families up Beechy Fork and Methodists down on Tan Branch and Christians over on Dog Creek.

The Negroes, so often pictured as suffering from white haughtiness in stories written by people who never visited a Southern community, had their own freedom to carry in their affairs in their own way. Most of them belonged to the Baptist church at Mount Zion, but a few resisted the efforts of their brethren to get them to join any church. No matter how loyal the ex-slaves were to their former masters, I never knew a Negro to vote the democratic ticket or to be scared by bad boys so that he would not go to the polls. The Negro's being a Republican was accepted as "just one of those things," and I suspect that a Negro who suddenly started making speeches for the Democrats would have been advised to pipe down. The nearest approach to a riot Fidelity ever knew in my time occurred when a politician came into our neighborhood and called the Negroes brothers and patted them on the back. The Negroes soon told the visiting politician which was the nearest road back to the place he came from. The ones who told my family about the scamp, as they called him, felt that he had been down-right sacrilegious in failing to recognize the line of demarcation between white and colored. It did not take any ardent white supremacy to advocate to put this fellow in his place. Of course, the Negro's morals were not ours, but the most immoral Negro I ever knew was tolerated because she stayed in her place and worked hard to support her mongrel breed. Whether anybody ever remonstrated with her for her promiscuity I was too young to know, but, like Julia Peterkin's Scarlet Sister Mary, she raised her numerous brats to be courteous to black and white alike and to "behave themselves and keep their noses clean."

When a sick man's crops needed attention, no questions were asked about his race, or color, or political or religious affiliation. And the glory about this is that there were little Fidelities all over the world of a half century ago and still are.

Retonga His Standby Says Indiana Farmer

Was "Flat Of His Back" When First Took Retonga Medicine, Says Mr. Rose—Distress Soon Relieved.

"Retonga has been my standby for six years and it has helped my wife as much as it helped me," declares Mr. Thomas Rose well-known farm owner of Route 2, French Lick Springs, Ind., in praising this noted herbal stomachic and Vitamin B-1 medicine. Discussing his case Mr. Rose gratefully continued:

"Six years ago I thought I was about at the end of my row. I had no appetite, I lost weight, and I felt so nervous it seemed to me I was up and down all night long. Everything I ate seemed to turn sour and give me heartburn until I sometimes felt like my stomach was on fire. I had pounding headaches, I was forced to take strong laxatives all the time, and I finally got 'flat of my back', as the saying is.

A friends persuaded me to try Retonga and I began to get relief from the very first bottle. I took four bottles of Retonga and by that time I was feeling like a different man and back working on my farm every day. Since then I have taken a little Retonga every year and so has my wife. Retonga has been a great blessing to us."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to loss of appetite, insufficient flow of gastric juices in the stomach, constipation and Vitamin B-1 deficiency. Thousands praise it. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Co. adv.

THROUGH THE EYES OF A FRIEND

Customers are people. And the Telephone Company has always considered customers in that light—as individuals, like the men and women who make up our own company.

This friendly feeling, we are happy to say, is reflected in the progress that Kentucky and the Telephone Company made together through the years. It is this same kind of partnership that makes the future sparkle with promise.

Like Kentucky, the Telephone Company is buckling down to its postwar tasks. For the 3,326 men and women of the Telephone Company in this state, it means the greatest expansion program in our history in Kentucky. It's a full and complete program, designed to meet the state's industrial and agricultural needs of the future. It means the expenditure of millions of dollars in Kentucky.

Specifically, the program will provide telephones for all who have been waiting for them. This is one of our first jobs! A greatly expanded telephone program for our farmer friends is also in process. Expansion of long distance service is being scheduled too. It will include the installation of coaxial cables to handle more calls with speed and convenience for you, and provide more facilities for that exciting visual art—television. A mass of construction is to be done and a new service to motor vehicles is also in the offing.

Here's a program of achievement, to be worked out together by Kentucky and the Telephone Company as they have worked out their attainments of the past. By mutual understanding and cooperation, Kentucky and the Telephone Company will grow greater than ever.

It's a big program that shall become a reality as fast as materials become available—a reality to be translated into prosperity and payrolls for the people of Kentucky. For a business is like an individual. If he fares well, his community fares well with him. And that is the way it should be, among friends.

COLDWELL-HEARN
WEDDING AT JACKSON

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Caldwell of near Fulton, announce the marriage of their only daughter Dolores to Warren R. Hearn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hearn of Dresden, Tenn.

Rev. Wayne A. Lamb, uncle of the bride, officiated at the single ring ceremony at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, Nov. 25, at the Hays Ave. Methodist Church, Jackson, Tenn., before an altar of fall flowers and ferns.

Miss Charlene Swan of Memphis and A. W. Green of Fulton, were the attendants.

The bride wore a powder blue suit of soft wool, with a white blouse and winter white hat and gloves. Her other accessories were blue and her corsage was white gardenias.

Miss Swan wore a brown suit with brown accessories, a corsage of white carnations.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a 6 o'clock reception at their home, honoring the bride and groom. The bride's table was spread with lace cloth, white chrysanthemums, tall white candles and a three tiered wedding cake topped with the miniature bride and groom. The couple were points of interest in the decorations.

Mrs. Hearn was graduated from Fulton High School and Draughn's Business College in Paducah. Since 1943 she has been connected with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Hearn graduated from the Murray State College and obtained his law degree at Washington, D. C. He has been connected with the Federal Bureau of Investigation since 1940.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hearn left for a two weeks honeymoon in New York City and other points of interest, with the bride wearing a pin-striped brown gaberdine suit with matching top coat, brown hat, and her accessories were brown lizard.

After returning from their honeymoon they will make their home in Jackson where the groom is stationed at the present.

FARM BUREAU SUCCESS IN FULTON COUNTY

Less than 50 percent of our goal of 700 members for Fulton County was reached on Farm Bureau Day, J. B. McGehee, secretary of the Fulton county farm organization stated this week. Due to the lateness of the season and every farmer trying to make each pretty day count in getting his crop out, most of the farmers could not leave their work to come and renew, but the directors expressed their gratitude in doing as well as we did under this handicap, Mr. McGehee continued.

Communities standing in comparison of members secured last year are as follows:

Palestine, 70, to a total of 145 for last year ending Dec. 31, 1944.

Cayce, 64, to a total of 129 last year.

Crutchfield 36, to a total of 52 last year.

Sylvan Shade 31, to a total of 71 for last year.

Hickman 54, to a total of 127 last year.

Brownsville 15, to a total of 30 last year.

Western 63, to a total of 155 last year.

Colored 2, to a total of 45 last year.

The American Farm Bureau Federation will hold their annual convention in Chicago on Dec. 17, 18, and 19, Mr. McGehee stated and he has been selected by the directors as a special delegate to attend as a representative of the Million Member Goal Achievement, and that it was determined that a delegate from each community would be sent to this convention also with their transportation and lodging paid.

Crutchfield community has had their annual election and re-elected C. A. Binford, president; J. R. Elliott, secretary treasurer and Neal Little was chosen vice president to succeed Marshall Finch.

They also selected J. P. Williams as their delegate to attend the National convention. The other six communities are to name their delegates before Saturday night, Dec. 1, and will have their annual election before Dec. 31, so as to qualify for representation on the Board of Directors at the annual county farm bureau convention to be held the first of the year.

TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD

no matter how impregnable it may be, affords no protection whatever against the atomic bombs which might be launched from the stratosphere and utterly destroy our nation.

We can best honor those for whom we dedicate this memorial by doing everything to make sure that the next world war never comes, and that the freedom we enjoy today may be passed on to those who follow. We cannot divest ourselves as individuals of the responsibility which rests on our nation. Democracy draws its inspiration and its ultimate power from its citizenship. What you think about it, what each of us think about it, what every American thinks about it, means much. In a Democracy the consensus of the opinions of its citizenship speaks through its chosen representatives. We cannot discharge our duties of citizenship by avoiding activity in politics, but rather by showing a keen interest in politics. We owe our country the duty of an active participation in the selection of our public servants.

It is my conviction that probably the greatest hope of America today lies in the return and active participation of the youth of America who have been serving their country in the politics of our country.

No one knows quite so well what our liberties mean to us, as do those who have composed our armed forces throughout the world. They have witnessed first hand the devastation and destruction of war; what it means to see thousands upon thousands of our own and of our allies laid silent in death, and they, above all others, have the right to be heard. Shall we honor and respect them for the service they have performed.

NOTICE—If you want free trip to Chicago Farm Bureau Convention, see Cecil Barnett.

TIMES DO CHANGE

Paper collars for men used up an important part of America's annual paper supply back in 1870. Thirty-three big factories operated full time just to manufacture these items for the male wardrobe.

What a waste of paper, you say. Yet it has only been since 1870 that such accepted modern conveniences as telegraphy, airplanes automobiles and high speed presses have come into being.

Within the living memory of any 75 year old man or woman has come every scientific invention for shortening time and distance except the steam engine.

Back in 1870 communities were more isolated from neighboring towns as little as 20 miles away than they are today from some of the most remote Pacific islands. Distance has shrunk to the speed of airplanes; the human voice can circle the globe in a matter of seconds.

With this shrinkage of time and distance came many more important uses of paper than the manufacture of men's collar. Small concerns that had been content to serve only their immediate surroundings have expanded into vast organizations doing business all over the world. And millions of tons of paper have annually been required to wrap, pack and package their products.

The war brought about an even greater expansion in the uses of paper. Today, in addition to a constantly expanding need for paper and paperboard for packaging purposes, these and other pulpwood products are finding their ways into manufacture of plastics, wallboards, textiles, fertilizers, road building materials, flavoring extracts and thousands of other new and unexpected uses.

The old fashioned horse and buggy has been pretty much replaced by the "horseless" ones and paper collars are no longer considered stylish, but the products of the pulp and paper industry have remained among the pace-setters in man's constant struggle for advancement.

That is why the pulp and paper industry is undertaking its present program for expansion, reflected in the current recruitment campaign for woods and mill workers now being conducted by the industry in conjunction with the U. S. Employment Service. It is also why mills in this area are in such urgent need for more top quality pulpwood NOW.

The one who will be found in trial capable of great acts of love is ever the one who is always doing considerate small ones.—F. W. Robertson.

It is one of the beautiful compensations of life that no man can sincerely try to help another without helping himself.
